

Director of Education

Tiffany Jackson is a graduate of the University of North Texas (Denton) where she received her BA in Public Relations. As a connector of people, Tiffany's passion for the arts was born the day her father took her hand to dance. Today, the beat goes on but to a different drum; she enjoys creating dynamic opportunities for children by helping them to find their spark, their passion, their very own rhythm. As a former Community Site Manager for Big Thought; Tiffany was able to use various forms of art to impact the lives of at-risk middle schoolers. She also developed and worked diligently with a group of well-qualified teaching artists and a wonderful staff for four years. Her work with Big Thought has propelled her to step into her new role as the new Director of Education for the Bishop Arts Theatre. She is excited about embarking on her new journey but, more importantly, she is excited about introducing the arts "as a way of life" for many youth and seniors through program development.
